

Delivering safe demolition and improved resource efficiency

A CPD-certified presentation by Mark Lench, CPD Programme Manager, General Demolition Ltd

Overview

Safe demolition is a critical stage in paving the way for new developments. This CPD-certified presentation provides an insight into the process for selecting and engaging a competent demolition contractor and the role of the demolition contractor from the initial pre-construction phase through to demolition, recycling and site clearance operations.

Its aim is to increase knowledge of demolition and resource efficiency, to highlight the methods used and services associated with a competent demolition contractor and to educate and inform persons involved in the appointment of demolition contractors.

General Demolition is a member of the Construction CPD Certification Service, an initiative to increase standards of CPD (Continuing Professional Development) provision throughout the construction industry. We are committed to sharing our knowledge with the industry and this presentation has been independently certified by the CPD Certification Service.

Presenter:

Mark Lench has over 25 years of experience in the global project management, engineering and construction industries during which time he has worked for leading developers, contractors, consultants, manufacturers and specialist service providers. He joined General Demolition's management team in May 2005 and is currently responsible for leading the company's CPD programme.

To book your seminar, contact:

Jane Wakefield on 01932 252275 or jane.wakefield@general-demolition.co.uk or Mark Lench on 07764 941089 or mark.lench@general-demolition.co.uk